

Compromise May Crack Bricker Deal

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Senate leaders hoped today to unveil a bipartisan substitute for the Bricker amendment which they believe will break the stalemate in the dispute and still preserve the President's powers in foreign affairs.

Republican Leader Knowland, of California, said he expected to be able to announce details of the much-talked-over treaty curb substitute during the day, although more conferences and more gishy goshy remained.

Sen. George (D-Ga.) who introduced a proposal that became the basis of the bipartisan substitute, said he wasn't quite so confident.

"Somebody always has some other little idea he wants to get," George said in an interview. "They're still hoping they can get Bricker to agree to something. But I don't think any compromise is possible with John now."

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) himself said yesterday the differences with the administration on his proposal show "a fundamentally different philosophy of government."

Even if an agreement can be reached which provides a middle ground for many senators, the big question seemed to be:

Can Senate leaders muster the necessary two-thirds vote required for a proposal to change the Constitution?

Or will those taking extreme positions on both sides join forces to prevent enactment of a compromise?

Some sponsors of the original Bricker amendment already were conceding privately it could not pass.

Apparently the substance of Bricker's proposal was acceptable to the administration, since Knowland and other GOP leaders talked in the president's at the White House yesterday, then returned to the Capitol to push ahead with their substitute.

The sheriff said Hammond was shot through the left hand with a .22 caliber rifle, and Feden suffered a shattered bone above the elbow of the left arm. Blackard said Feden was hit by a .45 caliber automatic slug.

Hammond was released from the hospital in custody of county officers, while Feden was retained for further treatment.

Sheriff Blackard said Hammond will be charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and both men will be charged with assault with intent to kill. No motive was given by the officer for the shooting.

Insists GOP Must Unite on Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says the Republican party must be united on broad political policy and realize—as Abraham Lincoln advised—that "the dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present."

In a Lincoln Day message made public by the White House last night, the President appealed for unity at a time when some GOP Congress members are murmuring that certain phases of the Eisenhower program are too much like the New Deal of the preceding Democratic administrations.

He spoke out at a time, when Senate Republicans are split over basic constitutional policy as pointed up by the controversy over the Bricker amendment on treaty-making powers.

"It is... essential," Eisenhower declared, "that the members of a political party—if the party is to be effective—join together to reach a common goal. Unless there is unified support of broad political policy, there is no true political party."

THE DOCTOR DISAGREES

by prize-winning novelist Elizabeth Seifert

Starting Monday in the HOPE STAR

Oh, WHERE is my wandering ad tonight?

That's a fair question and deserves a factual answer. When you buy newspaper advertising you have an investment in every copy of the paper that carries your sales message because the circulation of the newspaper is also the circulation of your advertising. So, what you get in return for your advertising dollars depends on the newspaper's circulation. In order that you may buy space in this newspaper as you would make any sound business investment, we hold membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations,* well known to advertisers and publishers as A.B.C. Only publications with paid circulation—evidence that people want the paper—are eligible for membership.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office to make a thorough audit of our circulation records. The FACTS that he obtains as a result of the audit are published in A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; Where it goes; How obtained; How much people pay for our paper, and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

It's never necessary for our advertisers to ask, "Oh, where is my wandering ad?" They get the FACTS from our A.B.C. report and KNOW. Ask for a copy today.

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. established a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring circulation and methods for auditing and reporting circulation FACTS.

Movies Are Over That TV Gloom

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Optimism is falling like gentle rain on Hollywood. The movie business hasn't looked so good in years.

After five years of gloom, the film industry is enjoying good times and is looking forward to better ones. The reason is simple enough: you, the ticket buyers, are going to the movies more often.

The "lost audience" has been found again. You and your neighbors don't stare at the TV set as much as you used to.

"The honeymoon is over," Hal Roach, first big producer to enter TV films, told the radio-TV convention last week. "People won't stay home and watch now because a program is free."

You are rediscovering that movies can provide exciting entertainment. Hollywood is helping by providing bigger pictures. They are not necessarily better. The accent is on lightheartedness to give you something you can't get on the small screen at home.

Last year saw more big-money films than any year in movie history. Variety listed 10 films earning five millions or more in this country and Canada. Leader was "The Robe," which may overtake the "Gone With the Wind" record of 26 million.

"Only 18 months ago the film biz was coming in on a prayer," reported Variety. "Now it has the biggest wings since 1946." It observed that films were the only American industry to suffer a depression since World War II.

Hollywood labor also reflects the optimism. "I think we reached the bottom last year," said a Screen Actors Guild official. "Employment for actors appears to be picking up."

Work for writers is perhaps most significant. Scripts must come before shooting. After a "rugged" year 1953, Screen Writers Guild head H. M. Warner sees "abundant signs the tide is turning" for the word makers.

Even Wall Street has indicated the trend. Motion picture shares showed the biggest percentage gain of any industry in 1953. The only companies to show losses were RKO and Paramount, which dipped one and a fraction points.

Every Hollywood Studio appears to be on an upswing.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The late W. W. White once analyzed the Gospel of John and said much stress on the witness of the Master's mighty works.

The miracles in the Gospel are numerous and significant. There is the miracle of the turning of water into wine at the marriage in Cana. Again visiting Cana, Jesus heals a nobleman's sick son at Capernaum (John 4:46-54).

In Jerusalem, at the pool of Bethesda, He cures an infirm man, and because it was on the Sabbath incurs the intense hostility of certain Jews. Then comes the miracle of the feeding of the 5,000.

There is also the miracle of Jesus coming to the disciples walking on the sea (John 6).

In Chapter 9 is the story of the restoration of sight of the man born blind.

The crowning of the miracles is the raising of Lazarus from the dead.

The testimony of these mighty works will vary in value according to one's attitude toward miracles in general.

For some the wonder-working aspect of Jesus seems larger than the spiritual significance of Jesus and His teaching.

For others the miracles are evidence of a wonderful life in which the supreme importance was the teaching and the life-giving power that brought new life, not to the body, but to the soul.

Jesus Himself disparaged the materialize aspect of the miracles. To those who thronged about Him after the feeding of the 5,000 He said: "Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled" (John 6:26).

The late Dr. Lloyd Douglas whose fame since his lamented death has increased even beyond that of his lifetime because of his notable book, "The Robe," once wrote a book under the title, "Those Disturbing Miracles."

I don't know how much his book may have answered the questions in any minds that were disturbed but I recall my answers to a young woman in one of my congregations, who was greatly disturbed.

I did not try to argue the matter with her. If we could explain miracles they would no longer be miracles and there is no "proof" in a scientific sense. It is a matter of belief or faith.

When I suggested to her that she should trust about the miracles for the time being and concentrate upon all concerning Jesus, she said she would.

The Testament that involved only the challenge to moral and spiritual faith.

Told her to concentrate on the Sermon of the Mount, the Parable of the Sower, and the whole teaching of Jesus as contained in His own words, and in the interpretations of those who knew Him best.

I suggested that then she might be in a position to decide about the miracles. If men once believed in the Christ because of the miracles I believe that today they believe in the miracles because of Christ.

many of today's pre-teen-age sophisticated, so used to miracles they don't know what a miracle is. If Santa Claus left them a slice of moon cheese, wouldn't they take that for granted, too?

Children used to entertain themselves. Many modern mothers now complain to their husbands at nightfall: "I'm all worn out trying to think up things to keep the children entertained." But why should any healthy child ever have to be entertained by his parents, except perhaps on rainy days or periods of illness?

Simple joys are better for young minds than complex pleasures—and for older minds, too, for that matter. In the present jukebox age how many of our children still know the delight of simple things, how many lose the path in a mechanical jungle? Isn't it more fun for a kid to throw a rock at a tin can on a fence than to mow down dear old grandma with a toy atom ray gun?

But the thing I pity the youngsters most for now is their dwindling interest in reading. A book is the opening portal to the vast hall of the human spirit; libraries are the shrines of the mind. No canned music, no flickering pictures on a movie or video screen can truly stir the imagination of a child as well as a book.

Somerset Maugham, who turned 80 this week once wrote: "Intelligent people, after the age of 30, read nothing at all."

It isn't quite that bad. But it certainly is true that most people do most of their reading when young, and gain the ideas, they spend the rest of their lives exploring.

Many a high school boy now can discuss the atmosphere on Mars or the problems of tailoring a space suit. But has he walked the streets of old London with David Copperfield, or floated down the Mississippi with Huckberry Finn? Probably not, unless his teacher led him on a conducted tour.

There is no doubt children today are smarter in many ways, know more facts about more things, than any previous generation. But they

U. S. Ready to Combat Any Depression

WASHINGTON, (UP)—President Eisenhower said today the government has "a formidable arsenal" of anti-depression weapons and "will not hesitate" to use them if necessary.

He emphasized in his economic report to Congress that he does not think the United States is headed for a depression. But if one should materialize, he said, the administration is prepared to fight it with such measures as these:

1. Expand the construction of useful public works on large scale. "We said federal spending on public works could be stepped up 50 percent within a year with present plans. Eventually, he said, the nation could usefully increase its spending on highways from the present $3,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 a year; on schools from $2,500,000,000 to $6,750,000,000 a year; and could double or triple its outlays for waterworks, sewers and hospitals.

2. "Modification of the tax structure." This could include both general tax cuts, to release more purchasing power to consumers, and tax law revisions, such as those now being considered by Congress, to encourage business expansion.

3. "Greater use of monetary, debt management and credit policy." The federal reserve board and the treasury would use their sweeping fiscal powers to pump more money into the economy, lower interest rates, and generally make credit easier.

4. "Liberalized use of federal insurance of private obligations." He did not elaborate on this, but the administration has been reported to be studying plan for government underwriting of installment credit to prevent wholesale foreclosures.

5. "Vary the terms of mortgages carrying federal insurance." Mr. Eisenhower asked Congress "just interest rates or longer payment periods on home mortgages insured by the VA or FHA."

Things About Normal at Big 4 Meet

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Everything normal at the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin: the United States and Russia spent the first two days blasting each other.

And at this conference in a Berlin room to find solutions for the world's ills, first of its kind in five years, the United States and Russia began doing closeup what they had done longrange before: they battled for France.

Before the talks began there was small hope East and West would reach agreements. Judging from what's been said so far this meeting may become, as was suspected, just another propaganda war across a table.

For Russia the whole business will be success if it can weaken the links between the United States and France. For this country it probably will be a success if France comes out of it a tighter ally.

What the ministers—the United States' Dulles, Britain's Eden, France's Bidault, Russia's Molotov—said in the first two days they had said before. They just restated their positions.

The Western position, as in the past, was this:

There must be a single European army. Called the European Defense Community (EDC), France and West Germany must be part of it. This means rearming West Germany.

This Dulles argued was the best way to keep Germany from ring a military threat again to her neighbors. With her troops in EDC, she'd never have an army of her own again. Here he was talking to the hesitant French, the Russians only incidentally.

Bidault made a strong pitch for EDC. Yet, it's the French who, through their fear of rearmament Germany in any form, have refused to join EDC. He was talking to the hesitant French, the Russians only incidentally.

And, although Bidault told Molotov EDC is necessary he himself doesn't know whether France will ever join EDC. The French Parliament won't vote on joining for weeks.

The irony of this could not be lost on Molotov, whose government, fearing an EDC that contains French and Germans and knowing that without EDC Europe's defenses would be weaker, has been trying to win the French away from it.

Naturally, Molotov followed the line in Berlin: To secure the French some more, to widen the split between pro and anti-EDC Frenchmen, he warned that, of Germany was allowed to rearm, even within the limits of EDC it couldn't be trusted.

The French also are sick of their way with the Communists in Indochina. Without mentioning In-

Swindle of Aged Man to Bring Charges

HOT SPRINGS (UP)—Prosecuting Attorney H. A. Tucker today he planned to file charges of robbery against a man in connection with the $5,000 swindle of an aged man last weekend.

Tucker identified the men, John Stach 72, and Eddie Joe Lane, 68. He said pictures of the men furnished by Houston, Texas, police had been identified by the victim, Nick Gasper, of Hot Springs bank officials and by (G) par's friends.

One of the men switched wallets on Gasper last Saturday as he was about to place $5,000 in a deposit box in bank vault. Gasper said later that the two men had put up $3,000 of the money along with his own $5,000 in connection with a proposed deal.

Gasper became suspicious over the weekend, and found that the wallet he put into the box contained only $33 in bills.

Pick-up orders were broadened for the two men, supposed to have left Hot Springs driving an automobile bearing California license plates. Tucker said today he believes they will be apprehended soon.

Tucker said one of the men had been arrested in nearly every jail in the union for confidence games, counterfeiting, and other offenses, and the other had served time in federal prison at Atlanta for counterfeiting and robbery.

He said the men's criminal records dated back to 1920. Gasper, formerly of St. Louis, had retired and planned to make his permanent residence here.

French officials estimate that about 300,000 Frenchmen now live outside the country, compared with about 800,000 businessmen, missionaries, engineers, and others who lived outside the country in 1914.

dochna by name, Molotov made veiled suggestion that maybe Russia could bring about an end to their fighting.

If the war ended and the Communists might take it over without a shot making the rest of Southeast Asia a wide open target.

Molotov then turned to the United States, over a subject suggesting the possibility of outlawing the atomic bomb.

The United States has already laid down terms of which it would accept no more. It would accept no more atomic weapons, and no more atomic weapons, and no more atomic weapons.

By talking about it, Molotov made a little more Russian propaganda.

Johnson Could Get Title Shot

BY JACK HAND
NEW YORK (U)—If Harold Johnson doesn't trip over Jimmy Slade tonight at St. Nicholas Arena, he may finally get his title shot at Archie Moore, the light heavyweight champ.

Philadelphia is the likely site some balm night in July, provided promoter Herman Taylor offers enough cash to convince Charlie Johnston, Archie's proprietor.

The odds of 4-1 favoring Johnson give Slade little chance but the 27-year-old New Yorker can be a very rough character when in the mood. They say he has been in the gym for a month getting ready for this one.

The bout will be on radio (ABC) and television (NBC) starting at 10 pm.

Eddie Stanky to Quit Baseball

NEW YORK (U)—Eddie Stanky added his name today to the list of stars who recently have decided to end their major league playing careers.

Stanky, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, said yesterday he would go out to make room for right handed pitcher Jim Walsh, conditionally purchased from Hollywood.

Walsh won 16 games and dropped nine last season.

"I played in only 17 games last year, Stanky declared. "I see that Walsh can help our club either as a starter or in relief."

In recent months, Johnny Mize and Johnny Sain of the New York Yankees, Dick Leonard of the Chicago Cubs, Bill Nicholson of the Philadelphia Phillies, Walt Masterman of Washington, and Bobo Newsum for the unimpeachable time announced their retirements. The Yankees still are trying to get Sain the change his mind.

Wininger Sets Palm Springs Pace

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (U)—Oklahoma's handsome Bo Wininger is regarded as one of professional golf's budding young stars and his spectacular 11 under par 61 led the field in the first round of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Tournament.

Today, the newcomer to tournament fame, fully aware that one round doesn't win an event, was faced with the problem of hanging on to his two-stroke lead and holding off such seasoned threats as Ben Hogan, fellow Oklahoman E.J. (Dutch) Harrison and others in the select field of 36 pros.

"I'm going to put my recommendations and suggestions to the association in New York," Tony told The Associated Press as he boarded a plane with his wife and two Davis Cup teammates, Bob Peery of Los Angeles and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La.

"I'm going to tell them everything I think has happened down here so they will understand the situation," he declared.

Seven Arkansas Porkers Taken in Pro Draft

PHILADELPHIA (U)—Profession all football coaches — with the cream of the country's gridiron stars to choose from — plucked Lamar McHan and six other Arkansas football players in yesterday's draft.

McHan, the University of Arkansas' superb tailback who excelled in every part of the game and won All-Southwest Conference honors, was the first choice in the regular draft.

The Chicago Cardinals, hard pressed for a quarterback who can pass, run and punt, took McHan as their initial choice. As the tailenders in the National Professional Football League last year, the Cards got first choice behind Cleveland's Browns who had a bonus pick. Cleveland took quarterback Bobby Garrett from Stanford.

In addition to McHan, the pros also took the state's outstanding player on a small college eleven—little All-American Richie Wolf from Arkansas State.

Wolf, whose running provided State with its major offensive weapon for four years was picked up on the 25th round of the draft by the Detroit Lions.

End Foley Sagely stood next to McHan in the estimation of the pro scouts. The San Francisco 49ers took the All-Southwest Conference end on the sixth round of selecting.

Three former Razorbacks who didn't see action last season—Dale Tommy Carlington of El Dorado, guard Sam Dumas of El Dorado, and halfback Jack Troxell of Jacksonville—were drafted.

Carlington, a 6-2, 220 pounder who dropped out of school because of scholastic difficulties, was taken on the eighth round by the Chicago Bears. The Bears have had tremendous success with Arkansas including such stars as Ken Kavanaugh, John Hoffman, Fred Williams, Leon Campbell, and Kay Dotts who detoured by way of Ole Miss.

Sammy Dumas, who quit the university and transferred to Southern State College at Magnolia, was the next Arkansas pick by the pros. The Cardinals chose Dumas, who was ineligible to play for Southern in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference last season.

Detroit's Lions took Jack Troxell, a fleet halfback who lettered with Arkansas' 1952 "T" formation team, but didn't try out for the single-wing Razorback outfit of last year. Troxell one of the fastest men in college football, has said he will play again with the university next season.

Tackling Buster Graves, a 6-4, 235 pound giant who spent most of the 1953 season on the bench, was the last university man chosen in the draft. He will go to Detroit.

Archie Moore Disposes of Joey Maxim

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, having finally disposed of Joey Maxim as a challenger, clamored today for a crack at Rocky Marciano's crown.

That target, however, may prove an elusive foe for Moore as the light heavyweight title chance he pursued so many years' chances are he will either fight Harold Johnson of Philadelphia or go back to South America on another exhibition tour.

But this was a healthy odor of decay, not like that other, for the apices would return to the earth in a cycle of productivity. At the lake, where the road ended, Dale stopped the car and got out.

Sand and loose rocks slid under her feet as she walked to the water's edge. The lake had a grayish metallic sheen. The horizon was lost in September's haze. Was this limitless water at her feet, or limitless sky? No; somewhere there was a dividing line, even if today it was invisible.

There is a time of retreat you cross, beyond which there is no returning.

A chipmunk's beady eyes and quivery tail evinced his alert interest in Dale's progress over the rocks until she found one flat and dry enough to sit on. She clasped her hands loosely around her knees, lifting her hot face to a sudden fresh breeze that was curiously and vividly reminiscent of Phil. I wish he were here, she thought desolately. Of all the world, Phil Parrish was the one with whom she could talk this through.

The full circle; the loss and confusion of the starting point on the circumference.

Only this time she hadn't reached for him. It was her breath. For months her groping hands had reached for the one man. To him had gone her cry in the dark. This time, Phil. Why? Only to have him say "Get out that hammer and smash!"

Dale blinked her eyes lightly and closed her mouth. How far back she had come. How far back she had come. How far back she had come.

Only this time she hadn't reached for him. It was her breath. For months her groping hands had reached for the one man. To him had gone her cry in the dark. This time, Phil. Why? Only to have him say "Get out that hammer and smash!"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (U)—This country's top tennis officials are extremely perturbed as they await the return of their Davis Cup team from its abortive and, in some respects, mysterious trip to Australia. They should be.

"Our head men know that, as of now, they and their youthful representatives are in extremely bad odor with the men who run the game in the world's leading tennis nation, especially with those Sydney officials who watched their national championships die a horrible death this week because Tony Trabert apparently did not feel like playing tennis.

"I don't understand it—I simply can't think what happened," worried Alrick Man Jr., chairman of the U. S. cup committee, as we discussed Trabert's strange loss to John Bromwich, the semi-retired veteran, almost at the outset of the Sydney tournament.

"A player of Tony's caliber" he continued, "simply does not lose to a Bromwich after he has won the first two sets 6-1, 6-1. There must have been something we don't know about, it was especially tough on the Australians after their own best player, Lewis Hoad, had withdrawn from the championships to go into the army. I'm afraid it will have a very bad effect on their game."

What Man could have added is that this loss is receipts will be vividly remembered by the Aussies, when the time comes around for them to send their stars to the Nationals at Forest Hills next summer. It will not be too surprising if they skip us entirely and go home straight from Wimbledon. That is something to worry about if you feel that tennis is important.

As they have not heard from Trabert directly, all our officials know at the moment about Tony's dramatic defeat by Bromwich is what they have read in the papers. They are especially intrigued by the young champion's explanation, as reported, that Bromwich, who throughout his international career was strictly a baseliner, suddenly rared up and began attacking him in the third set.

"I can see where that would have upset Tony," mused a member of our ruling staff. "However, I'm afraid, I would have to see it with my own eyes. I can't imagine old Brom attacking anybody, can you?" the answer was no.

"Our own best guess is that Trabert simply became amazingly tired of playing tennis after having been in Australia for two months. He did not want to remain over for their championships in the first place. He planned originally to play only for the cup, then to return straightaway to be married and resume his studies at Cincinnati University.

Instead, he was talked into marrying the beautiful Shaun Wood first and taking his bride along on an extended honeymoon. It took some doing to scrape up the extra expense money. The Aussies expected to get it back, and then some, in their championships. Their present feelings are understandable. They bought themselves a winded horse.

The 12 NFL teams drafted 360 players at yesterday's 14 hour draft sessions. Each club picked 30 players. All college graders whose original class graduates in 1954, were eligible for selection, even if they have varsity eligibility remaining. Some of those picked matriculated in college but never played, leaving for military duty or for other reasons.

The Cleveland Browns, Eastern Division champions, got things started by walking off with the annual "bonus" pick. The Browns, drew the winning bonus slip out of the hat. Coach Paul Brown immediately grabbed the nation's top passer stand-out Bobby Garrett.

In general, the selectors shield away from All-American players in their only choices. John Latner of Notre Dame was the only all-star to go in the first round. Pittsburgh grabbed him.

The rest of the 1953 All-American team was chosen starting with Michigan State's end, Dick Donnelly, in round five and ending with Penn's Jack Shanafelt, a tackle as the 27th pick in the 23rd round. Paul Giel of Minnesota went to the Bears in round nine; Paul Cameron, UCLA back joined Latner with the Steelers in round eight although he has said he prefers baseball to football.

Koske Johnson Rice back was grabbed by Green Bay in the 14th round while Oklahoma's J. D. Roberts was a 17th Packer choice. Guard Crawford Mims of Mississippi went to the New York Giants in the 13th round and Sam Morley, Stanford end to Washington as a 20th choice. Stan Jones, Maryland tackle was a 1953 Bears pick, while All-American center Larry Morris wasn't eligible for this year's draft.

The Chicago Cardinals started the first round by taking Arkansas' Lamar McHan, a fine quarterback.
